Reversing The Irreversible: Donut Economy & Planetary Health to Safeguard Our Future

OBJECTIVE & OUTCOME

The world is facing many uncertainties compounded by climate change. The SDGs are off track and unlikely to meet the ambitious goals set for 2030. How does the health of the planet relate to social, economic, environmental and health of human civilization?

Through this session, participants will be introduced to the field of planetary health which is a systems approach to solving some of our greatest existential challenges.

Understanding planetary health and the planetary health action plan the nation is embarking upon will provide participants the basic understanding of how to apply the principles in policy development, programs and strategies.
